What Have Others' Said?

"This course helped me find out how others may "see" and relate to me, and how I can modify certain behaviours."

- M.K. Entrepreneur

"This helped me understand the benefit of adjusting my communication & style for better results"

- C.B., Corporate Educator

Description

Achievers throughout history have one thing in common—they know themselves. Dynamic Communication teaches people how to communicate using the DISC model as a way of understanding themselves and others. The workshop includes a behavioral assessment with report to give a more complete understanding of what DISC behavior is and how to use it. Anyone attending the workshop learns how to interact with others and to appreciate other's behavioral styles within the organization. Increased communication is noticed immediately after the workshop.
